It's almost Halloween already. Time flies. Last weekend we had the Hutchinson shows with two specialty judges and I hear it went really well with major points on both sides. I went to the Doggie Palooza on Saturday. There were over 30 booths with various types of dog related goods and services, a number of dog activities and demos and presentations.

We have many upcoming events, the herding match on Oct 18, the geocaching event, - date as yet undetermined, the training event at Total Recall on Dec 6, and one or more matches. I need more people to sign up for the geocaching event and volunteers to help prepare a little picnic. Geocaching is the sport of finding hidden caches with the use of a handheld GPS. It is like an electronic quest for hidden treasure. Some caches have clues and some just have satellite coordinates. There is more information on this event on page 3 and a link to a web page and the survey. Please complete the online survey if you are interested, I am including more potential dates than the original survey. For additional information on geocaching there is an article in our July issue of the Shep-O-Gram. I would like to have at least 10 participants.

Roger Salava is looking for people to run for offices. Let him know if you are interested in a position.

Our monthly meeting is on Friday Oct 10. I have heard that Zoa Rockenstein is bringing a cake to celebrate her new champion. At our November meeting Lisa Lunde DVM will be giving a presentation on recognizing food sensitivities in dogs.

I started editing the Shep-O-Gram last October. I hope this has been a good year of issues. Please let me know if you have ideas for articles. My goal was to get each issue out a little before the start of the month, but I am falling behind. Too many things to do. I have a revised goal to get them out before the membership meeting each month. It takes several days, to put the Shep-O-Gram together.

This month I wrote an article on the Peticure, a nail grinding device that has been advertised on TV. I was curious about it and decided to try it and relate my experience with it. It is a fun article, I hope you enjoy it even if you are not interested in the product.

Julie Swinland.

In The Beginning
Part 5
History of the German Shepherd Dog Club of Minneapolis and Saint Paul
By Helen Miller Fisher

Meanwhile, we had another Sanction Match in the summer with Bill Thompson judging. We even lost $3.07 on that, however we had $210.00 in the treasury, due to increased membership and loans. We now had 30 members.

That summer Dr. Peluso brought in his first import through Jack, his Ch. Lesko. Bill Lucke attended his first meeting on July 20th 1955, and we had our second annual picnic at the Raak's.

In September with the growth of the club, we began discussions on having a Board of Directors. After 3 months of hassling it around, it was turned down. So began my 13 year drive for a Board.

Jack and Donna Reed were guests for the first time at that September 1955 meeting. It was at that meeting that we decided to increase the dues to $10 per year starting with January 1956. Up until then, we had a $5 initiation fee plus a $5 per year dues.

LaVonne Thorsrud and Virginia Brunson stewarded for the first time at the Fall Show, with John Seiler. We really pushed it that year. Here our show was in November, and we had to turn right around and get ready for a May 1956 show. The other point of interest that year, was that the German Shepherd Breed Survey was introduced to us. We were approached twice on having a survey here, and both times felt it was wrong for us and turned it down.

The year 1955 ended with not having either loss or gain, yet we had to get ready for our May 1956 show. Nominations were made. I decided to back off for a few years. After Secretary one year, and President for two years, I wanted a rest,--- that's a laugh.

Sol Fisher furnished the Variety Club Rooms for our annual Dinner, so with four Specialty Shows, money in the bank, and more members than we ever had, we felt we were a successful club.

After our fling at two Shows in 1955, we backed off and confined ourselves to one Spring Show in 1956. It was just too hectic to put on two shows, and our trophies were costing so much, that we were losing twice the amount of money. Dick Ayers judged the spring show, and we lost $100, not because of his fee, which was very reasonable, but because we were still going overboard on trophies.

Virginia Brunson was President that year with Wally Linder as Vice President, Shirley Elgert as Treasurer and Jack Reed as Secretary. However Wally had to leave for California in June of that year, so Betty Lucke was elected to fill out the term.

Dick Hawes came as a guest to the March meeting, and decided to join. We also regained two of our original club members, Don and Betty Peddie, much to our delight.

That summer, we celebrated having an "outsider" judge our sanction match. Tony Kurtz of Kurtz Home Shepherds in Wisconsin, was a good friend of a few of us – Bill Bliss, myself, the Luckes and Jack Sinykin, and because of this, came all the way from Milwaukee to judge a Sanction Match for practically nothing.

This is quite a common thing today - to get outsiders to judge matches, and pay their expenses, just like a regular show. I've judged two matches this year, out of the area, for expenses, and the clubs make money because entries are getting so large they can afford to operate like a regular show. In those days, however, when we even lost money on Sanction Matches, it was really something to get a well known Shepherd breeder, like Tony, to come up and judge our match.

We had our first Adult Steak Fry on October 20th. It was still warm in those days before our season's became fouled up. It was a huge success. We had thirty people attend it in Minnehaha Park with enormous steaks, pile of potato salad and beans, lots of beer and booze and finished up at 1 a.m. with a marshmallow roast.

In spite of the good turnouts at our Specialty Show, Sanction Match and Steak Fry, our membership dropped to 15. This was due to the fact that we just couldn't get any programs going. The meetings were dull, and unless you were an officer or a hard core shepherd person, you just didn't go to meetings.

We donated our first obedience trophy in the fall to the Minneapolis Kennel Club to the Highest Scoring Shepherds. We were trying, but our obedience was having a hard time getting off the ground.

We had considered going with the Wayzata show in the spring, but decided to stick with the Combined Specialty one more year.

We changed our By-Laws--- that elected positions of advertising and program chairman, became appointed positions, but I don't believe we informed the AKC of our action. We were still casual and informal in those days.

1956 was a really low ebb year, we only had $58.59 in the treasury at the beginning of 1957. We had spent $407.73 that year and most of it going for trophies. We decided that 1957 was the year to shape up.

In 1957, on programs alone, we had a tremendous improvement. We had Al Johnson speak on St. Paul Obedience Training Club, Dr. Mather on eye disease, two Parent-Club films, a Gaines film, Dr. Mather and Dr. Bea Hanlon, along with the Police, talk on the need for Police trained dogs.

Betty Lucke was President that year, with Dick Hawes as Vice President, Shirley Elgert as Treasurer, and Donna Reed as Secretary.

We made money on our Spring Show that year. We had Lloyd Brackett of Long-Worth Knls., judge on April 28, 1957 and when the book on the show expenses were closed we had made, not lost, $33. Lloyd spoke to us at a dinner after the show, with a critique on all our dogs. LeVonne Thorsrud had acted as his secretary in the ring. It was a wonderful and educational dinner speech. He was patient with all of the questions that were fired at him, and everyone enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

With our programs perking up, so did our membership. We jumped to 28 members by June and held them all year.

We were very social that year. This brought the membership back also. We had two Sanction Matches. I judged one and Bill Bliss judged another. We had dinners before both of these Matches, also a pre and after show dinner in the spring and our second annual steak fry. The club was becoming close working again, so we tackle our first obedience sanction match on August 18, 1957.

The Bloomington Obedience Club lent us their equipment, and Al Johnson was our judge. We had ten entries and considered ourselves very lucky. Since we were on the rise again, financially and membership-wise, we decided to break with the Combined Specialty, and go on our own. Since this was going to be the first time that we did everything ourselves, we decided to give ourselves plenty of time so we went to a fall show. We had our last show in the spring of 1957 and after consulting with the Milwaukee Club, decided to make our first solo effect on the second Sunday after Milwaukee in 1958. This gave us a chance to attend the Milwaukee show, and personally get entries for our show 21/2 weeks later, and believe me, Bill Bliss and I did just that, obtaining 10 - 20 entries at the Milwaukee show. With so much work and business connected with getting the Specialty Show under way, I proposed that we have a Board of Directors to manage Club affairs, so that we wouldn't spend meeting after meeting talking about ordering ribbons and arm bands, etc. However, I was defeated again. The majority seemed to want to be in on every little detail concerning club business, show or otherwise and ,yet we couldn't keep members because they were bored at the meetings.

We lined up Noah Bloomer for our judge for our fall show and tried to find a location agreeable with the AKC and the members.

Review of the Peticure original article by Julie Swinland

I have watched the TV commercials for Peticure quite a few times and I have pondered the possibilities especially for Amy who has gotten worse and worse about nail trimming as she grows older. She is now approaching 14. As strong as she is, I think her bones may be fragile and I don't like to hold onto her really tight. So we have a wrestling match with each paw in turn and inevitably I cut a nail too short and she looks at me with that "I told you so" expression of reproach. So I gave in and purchased a Peticure. Of course I didn't go with the least expensive model that they show on TV. No I needed POWER. So I went with the most expensive version, $59.99 plus shipping. It is called the Power model.

I started with Xena as my first test subject since she is the easiest to trim. Things went well, but we didn't seem to get too much off the nails. Then I moved to Gabby. She will do anything for a treat. She seemed quite content to have her nails buzzed down. I have used a Dremel on the dogs in the past and they didn't like it. It invariably would slide off the nail and attack anything else it could get access to. The Peticure, true to the ad, stayed on the nail. By the way, it is not like a pencil sharpener. In the commercial it looks like you put the nail inside the safe guard attachment, but it actually tip of the nail only goes in about 1/8 of an inch.

Finally came Amy. The dog who is trying to disprove the Star Trek saying that resistance is futile. So far resistance is working quite nicely thank you very much.. She plays tug o' war with her foot, it's here, no it's there, etc. I cut the nails too close and then I am preoccupied with stopping the bleeding. The typical blood stopping products seem to have no effect in stopping her blood flow and soon we have a small pond. I switch to an essential oil that stops it immediately. Whew. We are both exhausted and opt to try to get to another nail a different day after we rest and she has more blood to spare.

Now with the Peticure, the first paw, left front, no problem! Right front, for some reason this is entirely different. She doesn't want me to hold her paw at all. I tried putting a leash on her. Panic! So I did the back paws, no problem. We will have to get back to the front right one. I didn't take a lot off of her nails but it was a noticeable difference. I think this will work, we just have to approach it slowly.

Xena's opinion, "I don't know why you people are so preoccupied with my feet. This thing buzzes and makes my toes tingle. It's not as bad as that thing Mom calls a rotary tool. You never know where that will end up."

Gabby, "What's that? There was something buzzing on my nails? I just saw a treat bag. I didn't really notice anything else."

Amy, "Don't touch my right paw, please don't touch my right paw.... OK, you can have all the others, but the right one is MINE! Do we have any treats?"

Before

After

Day 2 on Amy's paw - we took it outside and added treats. There was a whole new attitude. All paws were now accessible! Here are some pictures. The first is a paw before much had been taken off. It had been awhile since our last good trim and the second is after a few minutes They are still long, but much improved. and there was very little stress as you can see in the picture of her above.

You need to realize it will take awhile to get the nails short, possibly several sessions. You can file them down to the quick using this, so you still need to use caution. The instructions say not to use it for more than a few seconds at a time on any one nail because it heats the nail up. I didn't notice any significant change in temperature of my dogs' nails but I was doing just a little at a time. This company also sells a safe guard attachment for a Dremel if you would like to try that instead of buying the Peticure. This requires patience and if your dog is not familiar at all with the noise of small tools or the tingle of having their nails filed, it may take some getting used to. The result will be a smoother nail though. I don't know how many times I have had my skin raked open by freshly cut dog toenails.

The good points

- It takes less time than chasing after a dog with a clipper and having to mop up the blood when they jerk just as you are cutting.
- It isn't as noisy as the Dremel.
- It seemed to be tolerated fairly well by all three of my dogs, especially if they saw the possibility of treats.

The bad points

- This is obviously not for a person in a hurry and if you are at ease with normal trimming, is probably unnecessary.
- It is another expense.
- The drum can slip causing the sanding band to rub against the safe guard attachment causing it to get really hot. You need to get the chuck nut really tight once you have properly positioned the drum .
- You have to replace the sanding bands when they show signs of wear.
- I think my Dremel may have more power. and it seems like the Peticure may be slowing down some with just a few sessions on three dogs.

Summary

It will take awhile to get Amy's nails back to where they should be, but it seems to be something she and I can deal with. I don't know how long this tool will last. This article is just my opinion based on a few days of use. It may not be a tool for you. I am always curious about things I see on TV and I think you may be too, so this is a real life experience.

The instructions that came with my model were for one of the other models so assembly required a call to the company, but they were very patient and talked me through the part that wasn't obvious.

Raw food available

Sheila Metz (lindenhillgsd@comcast.net) sent this information to the Shep-O-Gram on the availability of raw meat to feed the dogs. She suggested that we create an inner circle to order together if we don't need quite this much at one time. She has been very happy with Anderson and their meat. This is an abbreviated list.
